Authorization to publish the Rooted Forward application

To App Review,

I am the founder of Rooted Forward, a student-run nonprofit in Chicago that researches and publishes free walking tours, an online exhibit, a podcast, and housing policy work. Our website is rooted-forward.org, which we operate.

Rooted Forward owns the name Rooted Forward and owns the content in the application described below, namely the tour text, the recorded narration, the maps, the photograph selection and credits, and the design. The historical photographs in the application are public domain or Creative Commons and each one carries its credit under the picture.

Rooted Forward authorizes the Apple Developer Program membership identified here to publish and distribute that application, and to use our name and our content in the application and in its App Store listing. This is the only Apple Developer account we have authorized to do so.

Application name	Rooted Forward
Apple ID	6793979867
Bundle identifier	org.rootedforward.walk
Apple Developer Team ID	Q3J68NFZCP
Account holder	Nausheen Zaidi

The account holder is a member of my family and holds the membership on behalf of Rooted Forward because I am a high school student. The work, the content and the direction of the application are mine and the organization's.

This letter can be checked against a statement we have published on our own domain at <https://rooted-forward.org/app-verification>, which names the same Team ID and bundle identifier. Our about page at <https://rooted-forward.org/about> names me as the founder of the organization. Either page can be reached without an account.

Please write to contact@rooted-forward.org with any question about this authorization.

Sincerely,

Zain Zaidi
